

5 Steps to Become a Better Musician

A jump start to the world of music

An E-booklet that will change your mindset and improve your musical ability.

"Different you are Awake you will be"

*Stay
Musical*

5 Steps to Become a Better Musician

Step no 1: No shortcut applies

Allow me to insist on this point that there are no shortcuts that apply in becoming a successful musician. You definitely know this is true, but then again, another voice tells you that you can do this differently from other people and achieve your goals. However, this is not true as you will be needed to go through the same path others did. You understand that you cannot be a better musician within the '7day success' or the usage of 'pro secrets', but you go ahead and try to follow the steps given. Thus, just understand that, for one to be a better musician, he or she must pass the same path others did. No shortcut.

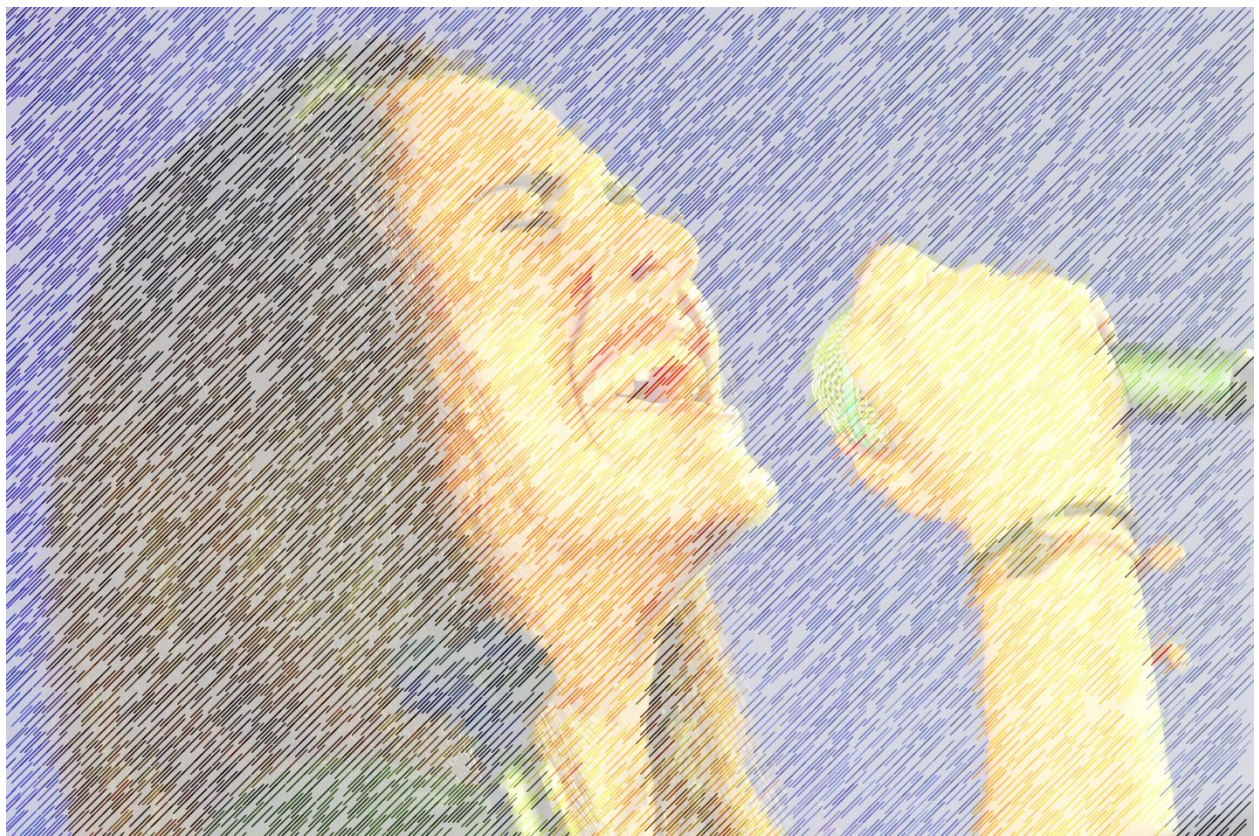

Step no 2: Why do you play music?

You will never become a better musician if your intentions are to please people or become popular. Great musicians always have something in store for their fans and thus, their fans have something to look forward to. It is sad to know there are some musicians who only think that attaining technique is the key to their success. It is important to have the skills needed; though, the key thing is what one does and how he or she does with the it. One is enabled to say something by technique. This means that it is a vessel that enables the musicians to utilize their skill. There are those musicians who are generally afraid of losing or being rejected by their fans and thus, they end up singing words or playing notes ineffectively. Let your passion drive you and you will be a great musician.

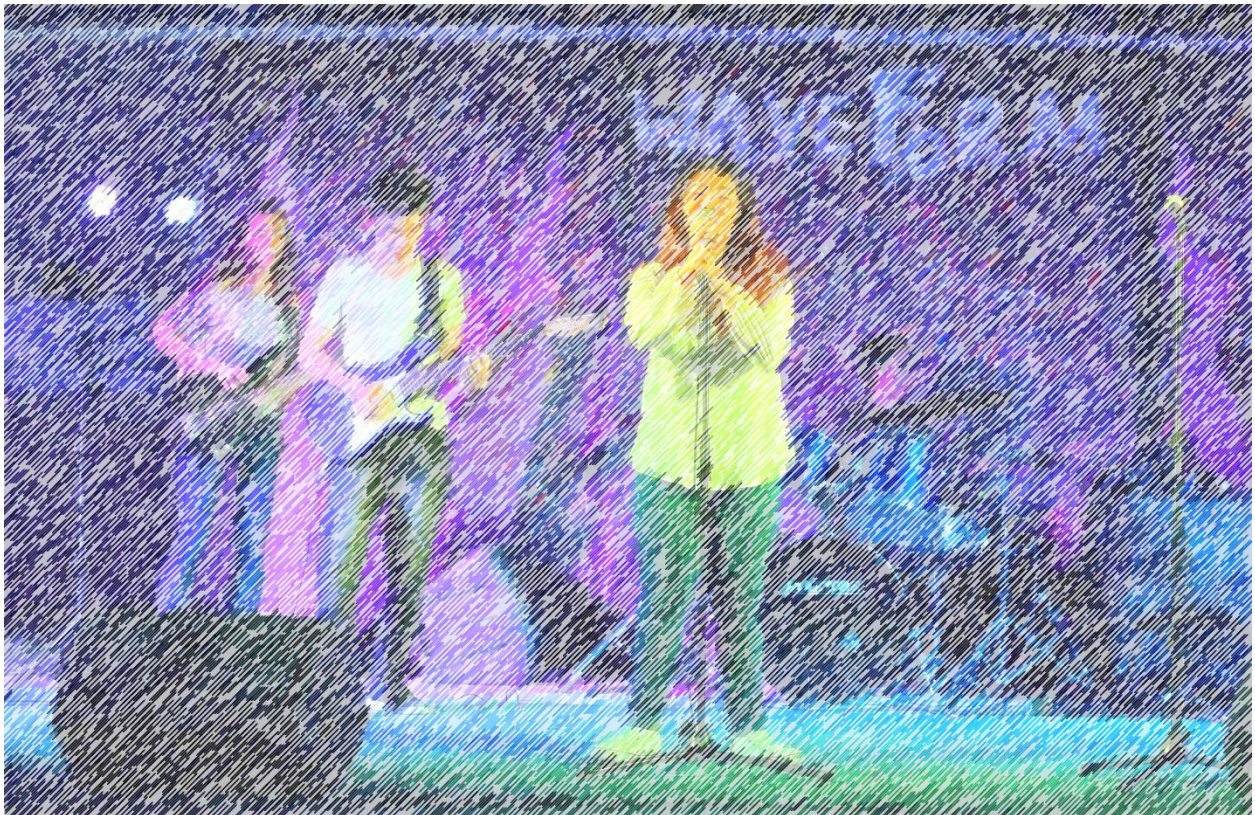

Step no 3: Be your no.1 fan

Generally, music should be your booster as one is not needed to be serious to be a great musician. You need to understand why music does not motivate you if you feel the same every time. It is true, musicians struggle before they become better; but, playing music is their daily booster. After you understand this, you will not worry of anything; instead you will continue to focus on bettering yourself.

Step no 4: Understand what makes you unique and treasure it

It is of great importance for one to understand what makes them outstand and focus of them. How you carry yourself or do things will determine the nature of your fans. Do not make a mistake of trying to impress everyone as this is impossible. Do what you do best and you will attract real fans. You are impacting something if a part of your listeners hates you whilst others love you. This simply shows that there is something you are truly putting in them. However, if this does not happen, you need to sit down and finds ways of impacting your fans. Focus of voice development and understand your fans and you will become a better musician whose fans will always have something to look forward to. Worrying about how to genuine to one's fan instead of technique or practice makes many musicians fail, despite their hard work. A good example of this is Kurt Kobian.

Step no 5: Use other artists as role models

You can learn a lot from musicians you see are an inspirational to you and hence, follow them closely. It is very important to understand that one cannot become a better musician by himself or herself. Rather, one needs someone to hold their hands. Thus, it is important to have someone that motivates you as you will learn a lot from him or her. Thinking that a great music is just a having a unique is not true. It is recommended to have search for musicians who are bright even if they have not yet become popular. They will help you understand yourself and fans and in the end, you will be able to know what to deliver to your listeners without a doubt. One becomes exceptional if he or she is willing to learn from others too.

Finally after reading the “5 Steps to Become a Better Musician”, you can start your musical journey by subscribing to our Youtube channel Stay Musical.

Staymusical.com is a platform that provides music tutorial contents that help you on your musical journey at school. Learn to play recorder, xylophone, piano, guitar, and much more in a step by step interactive tutorials. Sculpt your music knowledge with the theory series that can uplift your musicality to the next level.

So it is like having your music mentor at your fingertips!!!

Last but not least, Thank you all for your support, and I hope we will have a wonderful journey together.

And like always

Stay Musical...

